"All people are called equally to faithfully respond and share in the responsibility, duty, and freedom of the endeavor in seeking wholeness in their relationship, with God and neighbor. Odd Fellowship's aim of universal equality of humankind supports, uplifts and empowers that faithful response. Equality, worthiness and acceptance of all people are lofty and noble aspirations. My Christian faith and fraternal obligations are inseparable in the acceptance of the teaching "that all may be one".

"My experience with Odd Fellowship, has led me to discover an increasing depth of witness to the faith of the members. Already, leaders in their religious communities, they are strengthened by the Biblically-based degrees to greater faith and action. From the Initiation through to the funeral ritual, God is kept at the center of the member's life, and provides the impetus for fellowship and benevolent action which is so needed in our age of selfishness."

"The beautiful thing about Odd Fellowship for me is that each Brother and Sister respects the personal beliefs of each other and yet the three links of Odd Fellowship binds us together into a close-knit family despite our varying backgrounds, as the practice of Friendship, Love, and Truth is the aim and goal of every religion."

Odd Fellowship & Religion

We are taught on the threshold of Odd Fellowship to have reverence for God, to be industrious, and to act upon the Golden Rule, which requires us to do unto others as we would that they should do unto us. It should be made clear that Odd Fellowship is NOT a religion.

We are eager to welcome all honorable men and women of high moral character as members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, but we want our members to continue their dedication to their church or temple.

Odd Fellowship & Religion

Odd Fellowship respects all recognized religions, and we encourage our members to faithfully support the religion of their choice. To become an Odd Fellow or Rebekah you must be grateful to your Creator, faithful to your country, and fraternal to your fellowman. In our lodge rooms we meet for mutual counsel, the relief of distress, and the elevation of human character.

"For 47 years I have served Southern Baptist Churches in five states, led church-building programs, and organized three Baptist churches. I have been an Odd Fellow for 36 years, and I find great fellowship in our meetings. As a Baptist Pastor I am proud to be a part of what Odd Fellowship is doing all around the world."

"Centuries ago a wise old monk remarked that if people realized the peace and tranquility that could be found in his monastery, they would come flocking to enter it. I would like to add to that bit of wisdom. If you knew the sense of fulfillment and warm brotherhood that could be found among our lodge brothers, our Order would be besieged with applicants. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows supports and encourages the good work of the church."

"As an ordained minister of the Christian Church, I have always worked and enjoyed my Rebekah Lodge and the beautiful degree work taken from the Holy Bible. I have learned nearly all charges in the Rebekah Degree, and on many occasions I have served as both a minister and a Rebekah at funerals and on other occasions."

"Odd Fellowship encompasses those high and noble teachings which make us better men. As a Clergyman I find great personal satisfaction in my membership in an organization which supports the teachings of my faith. While not a religious organization, a respect for everyone's religion proves it to be composed of individuals of a faith. This association is second only to my allegiance to the Church. Odd Fellowship truly is good fellowship!"

"Joining and actively participating in the many faceted activities of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows gave me a feeling of accomplishment, complementing my functions at the synagogue. While not a religious order, our fraternity encompasses the noble ideals set forth in the Holy Bible and are harmonious with the Jewish religion."

"I have enjoyed my 35 years of membership in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The teachings of the Order which come from the Bible encourage the members to live according to the Golden Rule. I have experienced great growth from my participation in the Order and have learned to appreciate the many noble men and women in the Fraternity who have set great examples in their quest to make this world a better place in which to live."
