

THREE LINKS CAMP

Since 1958, the Three Links Camp has provided a retreat from the pressures of everyday life in the peacefulness of the forest. The Camp offers all the joys of camping without having to pitch a tent (but you can)...

The Camp, 25 acres in the Stanislaus National Forest, is ½ mile from the highway on a gravel road. It sits quiet and serene, waiting for your presence. It is open year around so both summer and winter activities can be enjoyed!

Five centrally located dormitories handle groups up to 108 people. Three restroom buildings contain showers for bathing, and the main restroom has a coin operated laundry. Numerous tent sites are also available.

Camp Dormitories

Over 40 RV spaces set among the trees in the forest shadows, let you rest in the comfort of your own RV. Most spaces have full hookups, and some can accommodate larger RVs. Some spaces have no sewer line, but you may use our convenient dump station.

The multipurpose building serves as dining room, recreation room and Camp focal point. A fireplace and hearth stretch across an entire wall helping to make evenings pleasant. The kitchen, storage, and serving areas can handle groups of about 150.

The "Chapel in the Pines" is a beautiful building with stained glass windows, and can seat up to 150 people - perfect for chapel services, weddings or meditation!

A solar heated Swimming Pool provides relief from the warm summer sun, and an outdoor Amphitheater that seats 150 provides the possibility of staging your own programs! A Crafts building is also available, perfect for small groups to use for meetings, seminars, crafts, or other purposes.
